Camp with the Arts

Art Music Drama
Culture and Science

Maria Franzini holds a Master's of Music degree in Piano Pedagogy and Performance from George Mason University and is licensed in Dalcroze Eurhythmics. Maria has taught at the Levine School of Music and summer camp in Washington D.C. She taught music at the Montessori School of Northern Virginia and currently teaches at Providence Montessori School.

Tripp Bratton is a Lexington based performer, composer and teacher. He is Lecturer of Percussion and Director of the African-Latin Percussion Ensemble and Fusion Ensemble at Berea College. He studied traditional percussion and music at the University of Kentucky and abroad in Ghana and Suriname

Lexington Children's Theatre uses drama to help students to develop their own unique creative voice, imagination and understanding of drama and it's role in society. Using bodies, voices and imaginations our students will explore the themes and ideas provided each week of camp.

Sue Martin is the Art Teacher at Providence Montessori School. She is a weaver and has taught workshops and summer camps including MAD Camp. She formerly taught art in the public school system. Sue has her Master's of Arts Education and a Bachelor's of Fine Arts from Western Kentucky University.

John Martin is Artist in Residence at Providence Montessori and Coordinator of Camp with the Arts. He has taught Ceramics at E.K.U. and art with MAD Camp at Arts Place. He received his Master's of Fine Arts degree at Southern Illinois at Carbondale and his Bachelor's of Fine Arts at Western Kentucky University.
